DT036686, WorkItem:SPM-128276 - Radio button group form control does not correctly define relationship or mandatory fields

Issue Description
On custom pages using the radio button group form control, the radio button group form control has no relationship between the label and the buttons.

Additionally, when a user is tabbing through mandatory radio button form controls, the screen reader does not announce them as mandatory.

Resolution
The radio button group form control has a relationship between the label and the buttons. Screen readers will now notify a user when a radio button group from control is marked as mandatory in a form.

Technical:
The issue was resolved by an update to rendered HTML of the radio button group form control, to properly group the buttons with the configured label.
A data-testid is generated in the HTML which is intended for testing purposes.
