1 Cúram Income Support for Medical Assistance (Traditional) Program overview

Income Support for Medical Assistance enables social program organizations to improve the efficiency and effectiveness of eligibility and entitlement services for medical assistance. Business tools and processes are provided for the effective management of traditional medical assistance programs, plus Affordable Care Act and MAGI-based Medicaid programs.

Use this information to learn about the rules that are used to determine eligibility and entitlements for Medical Assistance. This is reference information and does not contain any technical information about how the rules are run or how to administer the rules. For information about setting up and maintaining rules, see Working with Cúram Express Rules in the related links.

1.1 Overview of Medical Assistance Rule Sets

An overview of the Medical Assistance rule sets that are used determine eligibility for coverage types in the Medical Assistance program. The information includes an overview of coverage types, eligibility rules for non-financial factors, rules for coverage types, and rules for financial eligibility. The cascading eligibility process is also described.

Medical Assistance is a program that pays the medical bills, and sometimes the cost of institutional care, of people who have low income and cannot afford medical care. It is a means-tested program that is available only to certain low-income individuals and families who fit into an eligibility group that is recognized by federal and state law.

The Medical Assistance program provides eligibility determination for households based on financial and non-financial factors. The information required to determine program eligibility is captured as evidence. This evidence is assessed against a set of business rules to determine whether or not the household is eligible for Medical Assistance.

Medical Assistance Coverage Types

Use this information to learn which rule sets determine eligibility for which coverage types in the Medical Assistance program.

Medical Assistance is a needs-based program that is available only to certain low-income individuals and families who fit into an eligibility group that is recognized by federal and state law. Medical Assistance Eligibility Rules

Use this information to learn about the business rules for each coverage type. The rules are divided into two categories. Coverage type eligibility and financial eligibility. The rules operate against the evidence that is recorded in the system.

The categories can be further divided into the following:

- Coverage Type Eligibility
 - Non-financial requirements
 - Coverage type eligibility rules
- Financial Eligibility:
 - Income rules
 - Resource rules

Non-Financial Requirements

The non-financial requirements include Citizenship, Residency, and Social Security Number. As these rules are common to most Medical Assistance coverage types, they are documented in separately to the coverage type rules. See the Common Rules - Non-Financial Requirements section. Any coverage type-specific variations are described in each coverage type section.

Coverage Type Eligibility Rules

- Determine the individuals or groups of individuals who might be entitled to assistance. This is known as assistance units in Income Support and Income Support for Medical Assistance.

The rules for each coverage type determine how the assistance units are formed. In general, the household composition rules are used to form the assistance unit and determine the household members that are included in the unit. The household determination rules determine the household members that are excluded from the assistance unit.

- Determine whose income and resources should be considered in the financial eligibility rules. Such household members form the financial units.
- Determine how many people should be considered to be in the household. This is known as the household size. This is required in order to determine what income and resource limits should be used in the financial eligibility rules.
- The dependent child rules determine whether a child is considered a dependent child, and is used by many coverage types in the rules for the formation of assistance units. As these rules are common across several coverage types, the rules are described in the Common Rules - Dependent Child section.

Financial Eligibility Rules

The financial eligibility rules determine:

- Which resources and income are countable, not countable, or are excluded.

- How the income and resources should be calculated for each coverage type in the financial eligibility determination. This includes the income deductions that must be applied.

The rules for calculation of income and resources are described separately for each coverage type.

Cascading Eligibility

Use this information to learn about the cascading eligibility process. Cascading eligibility means that coverage type eligibility is determined based on a hierarchy.

The eligibility rule set runs the rules for the coverage type with the highest priority first, followed by the rules for the coverage type of next highest priority. If a client applies for Medical Assistance, the system checks whether they are eligible for a number of coverage types within the program. If they are eligible for a coverage at the top of the cascade, the lower coverage types are not checked. If the client fails a higher coverage type, the system checks the next coverage type, and keeps checking until the rules find a coverage type that the client passes. The client might fail all coverage types.

As part of the integration with the Affordable Care Act (ACA) programs, the Income Support Medical Assistance cascade was updated. As of Jan. 1, 2014, clients can apply for the new MAGI-based Medicaid and any of the remaining non-Modified Adjusted Gross Income (MAGI) Medicaid coverage types. The cascade varies based on when the application was submitted. For applications submitted before Jan. 1, 2014, the pre-Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act of 2010 (PPACA) hierarchy applies. For 2014 onwards, the new cascade as shown in Figure 1 is applied. If a change of circumstance occurred after Jan. 1, 2014, for an ongoing case, the household might be found eligible for one of the programs in the post-PPACA cascade.

The following programs were removed from the cascade effective January 1, 2014:

- Low-Income Families and Children (LIFC)

- Children
- Newborn
- Pregnant Woman
- Emergency Low-Income Families and Children (LIFC)
- Emergency Children
- Emergency Newborn
- Emergency Pregnant Woman

Note: Eligibility for Children's Health Insurance Program (CHIP) is triggered separate to Medical Assistance, and is not included in the cascade. Eligibility for CHIP requires that individuals are not eligible for Medical Assistance, the rules execution ensures and the program rules for CHIP ensure this determination.

The following figure defines the pre-2014 Cúram Medical Assistance cascade.

Emergency

Emergency contains the coverage types that are listed as follows in order within the cascade:

1. Emergency Aged, Blind, and Disabled (ABD) / LIFC*
2. Emergency Title IV-E Foster Care/Adoption
3. Emergency Newborn*
4. Emergency Children*
5. Emergency Pregnant Woman*
6. Emergency Medically Needy Children

*Not evaluated by new applications added since January 1, 2014 because these are now in part of a Cúram MAGI-based Medicaid application.

The steps to follow to calculate resources for family coverage groups. Resource rules are used to calculate the household's total countable resources. Total countable resources include resources deemed to the household.

For the rules that are specific to a coverage type, such as resource limits, see Medical Assistance Coverage Types.

Total Countable Resources

For every individual in the financial unit whose resources are counted, complete the following steps:

1. Calculate individual's countable resources AND
2. Add total deemed resources, if any, to the individual's total countable resources to determine the total countable resources, see Resource Deeming, AND
3. Add individual's countable resources to other household member's countable resources to determine household's total countable resources

Resource Deeming

The individuals whose resources are deemed is determined as part of the coverage type's household determination rules.

1. If the individual is the spouse of an eligible non parent caretaker relative, carry out Spouse to Spouse Deeming
2. If the individual is a parent who is not included in the assistance unit for LIFC, carry out Parent to Child Deeming
3. If the individual is a sponsor, carry out sponsor to alien deeming

Spouse to Spouse Deeming

1. Calculate countable resources for the ineligible spouse AND

Parent to Child Deeming

1. Calculate countable resources for the parent(s) AND
2. Deem the ineligible parent(s) total countable resources to the eligible child

Sponsor to Alien Deeming

You must apply the sponsor definition and sponsor deeming exception rules in the Common Rules - Alien Sponsor section first when you deem resources from a sponsor to an alien.

For each sponsor, determine the resources to be deemed to the alien as follows:

- If the sponsor does not have a spouse living in the home:
 - Calculate countable resources for the sponsor AND
 - Compare the total countable resources to the resource limit for an individual AND
 - Deem the value of resources in excess of the resource limit to the alien
- If the sponsor has a spouse living in the home:
 - Calculate countable resources for the sponsor and his or her spouse AND
 - Combine their countable resources and compare to the resource limit for a couple AND
 - Deem the value of resources in excess of the resource limit to the alien

1.6 Family - Common Income Rules

The steps to follow to calculate income for family coverage types. Income rules are used to determine the unearned, earned, and self-employment income that is countable or non-countable for a household.

For more information about rules that are specific to a coverage type, such as income limits, see Medical Assistance Coverage Types.

Total Countable Income

For each individual in the financial unit whose income is counted, complete the following steps:

1. Calculate individual's countable gross unearned income from all sources
2. Add deemable income, if any, to the individual's unearned income. (See Income Deeming)
3. Add individual's countable gross unearned income to other household member's countable gross unearned income.
4. Calculate the individual's countable gross earned income from all sources including income from self-employment.
5. Add individual's countable gross earned income to other household member's countable gross earned income.
6. If a gross income test is applicable, then combine the household's total gross unearned income and the total gross earned income to determine the household's total gross income. (Gross income test only applicable to LIFC.)
7. Apply income deductions to individual's gross income. (See Income Deductions below)
8. Add individual's total countable net income to other household member's countable net income after deductions to get the household's net countable income.

Income Deeming

The individuals whose income is deemed is determined as part of the coverage type's household determination rules.

1. Total the individual's countable gross unearned income from all sources
2. Total the individual's countable gross earned income from all sources including income from self-employment OR
3. If the individual is the spouse of an eligible non-parent caretaker relative, carry out Spouse to Spouse Deeming OR
4. If the individual is a parent who is not included in the assistance unit, carry out Parent to Child Deeming
5. If the individual is a sponsor, carry out sponsor to alien deeming

Spouse to Spouse Deeming

From the Spouse's gross countable earned income:

1. Deduct up to $90 Work Allowance per month from the employed person's earned income AND
2. Add the countable unearned income AND
3. Subtract an amount equal to 100% Standard of Need for the number of ineligible individuals, living in the home, not including the eligible spouse AND
4. Subtract any child support or alimony actually paid by the spouse to individuals not living in the home AND
5. The remaining amount, if any, is deemed as unearned income to the spouse

Income Deeming Exceptions

 - When two factors of eligibility change, one of which is increased earnings, and either one could cause ineligibility, the household is eligible for Transitional Medical Assistance OR
3. Where Low Income Families with Children Medical Assistance ineligibility is as a result of an increase in earnings of a Caretaker Relative and a concurrent change in unearned income AND

The adult child can apply at any time, but must be able to prove the disability started before age 22. We refer to an individual who receives "Child's insurance benefits" when they reach 18 years old as a Disabled Adult Child or DAC. 1.27 Retroactive Medical Assistance Requests

When an application is made for Medical Assistance, the applicant is entitled to request retroactive Medical Assistance coverage, for all programs offering retroactive coverage, for a retroactive period prior to their initial application date.

An applicant will request retroactive Medical Assistance coverage if an outstanding or pending medical expense, arising in the retroactive period, exists. Retroactive Medical Assistance may be requested with an initial Medical Assistance application or subsequently at a later point in time.

When retroactive eligibility is requested with the initial medical assistance application, it is not necessary for an applicant to have been determined eligible, in the month of application, for prospective medical assistance coverage in order to receive retroactive coverage. When retroactive medical assistance is requested at a date later than an initial application date, the applicant must have been determined eligible for, and have received medical assistance coverage following the initial application. Thus subsequent applications for retroactive eligibility can only be requested for the retroactive periods of existing product deliveries.

It is a prerequisite for retroactive medical assistance that all required evidence has been recorded for the requested retroactive period.

Retroactive Period

The retroactive period is the 3 month period immediately prior to the month in which the application for medical assistance was made. The retroactive period starts on a date in the 3rd month prior to the month in which the application for medical assistance was made. The retroactive period ends on the last day of the month immediately prior to the medical assistance application month.

For example, if a medical assistance application is filed in July, the retroactive period will start in April and end on the last day of June.

In the retroactive period:

- Eligibility is determined individually for each retroactive month.
- The business requirement for the coverage type must be satisfied as well as the retroactive requirements. The individual/household must have incurred a valid medical expense within each retroactive month to be determined eligible.
- Medical Assistance coverage is available for one or more retroactive months.

For example, if a medical assistance application is filed in July, the retroactive period is April to June. An applicant is eligible to receive coverage in any or all of the months April, May and June in which they are found eligible.

Retroactive Period Start Date

The retroactive period start date in the 3rd retroactive month varies. In some states it is dependent on the date of application in the application month, and in others it starts from the 1st day in the 3rd retro month (configured option). A system variable is defined which when set defines which retro period start date option is used ('retroPeriodStartsOnFirstDayOfMonth'.)

Check Retroactive Eligibility

The retroactive medical assistance check can be triggered from the application or the integrated case post application. If requested from the integrated case, the user can view all the potential retroactive periods for which retroactive eligibility can be requested and select the required period.

The system then checks retroactive eligibility for all household members, for all programs in each of the selected retroactive months. The system checks for eligibility for all programs except for CHIP and Qualified Medicare Beneficiaries (QMB).
